What are the robes/sashes a priest puts on when he celebrates Mass? And what do they mean?

The first thing the priest puts on is the alb. This is a long white garment that goes all the way to the feet. The word alb comes from the Latin word alba, which means white. It is reminiscent of a baptismal garment, reminding the priest that, at the core of it all he is a Christian. A cincture is the braided cord used as a belt around the alb, and it symbolizes chastity. The priest then puts on his stole, a long cloth that marks the Office of the priest or deacon. A priest wears his stole around the neck so that both ends hang down the front. The stole symbolizes the priest's sacramental power and authority as he represents Christ. It is the Savior's yolk that Jesus mentions in Matthew 11:29-30. The outermost vestment of the priest is called a chasuble. This can be a different color according to the liturgical season or feast. The chasuble is similar to a poncho worn by shepherds in ancient times. It symbolizes the priest "putting on Christ" and our Good Shepherd.
